Neve

Radiant – clear – pure

Pure white atop Iceland's snow-capped mountains, the kind of white that brings out contrasts and gives the world a dreamlike serenity.

This color goes perfectly with calm, natural designs featuring wood or wooden décor, but it also creates a dramatic contrast to eye-popping colors.

Nebbia

Neutral – mysterious – subtle

Water molecules swirl, fog covers everything like a veil. Fog blurs the lines between contrasts, creating an atmosphere of mystery.

This color goes perfectly with all kinds of styles. Nebbia emphasises industrial design, but it's also a subtle counterpart to bright colors.

Terriccio

Vibrant – abundant – earthy

Iceland is the land of volcanoes, and its soil is rich in nutrients as a result. Volcanoes represent nature's power, renewal and the circle of life.

This color goes perfectly with black and anthracite, which form a natural unity with this dark brown. Paired with mint or other pastel shades, Terriccio's gentle metallic shimmer makes it a real trendsetter.

Menta

Natural – refreshing – harmonious

During the summer months, Iceland's herbs, ferns, lichens and grasses provide splashes of color. Shades of mint evoke the spring – and the wonderful moment when you really feel the days getting lighter and the nights shorter.

This color goes perfectly with other pastels, picking up on one of 2020's key trends. Pastels are gentle on the eye and bring color into a room without dominating it. Menta creates a stylish contrast to a rich dark brown.

Laguna

Nordic – versatile – fluid

Iceland's Blue Lagoon is a well-known destination, but the island is home to many more small lakes and lagoons, as well. Every body of water is unique, with their very own shape, color and appeal.

This color goes perfectly with any shade of grey. Laguna comes into its own alongside silver, light grey, greenish grey, aged wood and asphalt grey. When paired with other colors, the grey takes a step back and provides additional depth.

Atlantico

Mysterious – deep – intense

Iceland is surrounded by the Atlantic, the world's second-largest ocean. The Atlantic and its seas cover around a fifth of the earth's surface, connecting continents, offering a home to a diverse array of aquatic creatures – and harbouring no end of secrets.

This color goes perfectly with other shades of blue, as the various blues come together to form a harmonious whole. If you're looking for contrasts, you can pair this dark blueish grey with concrete for a minimalist effect, or with gold for a sophisticated touch.
