A feast for the senses

Whether it's a warm, earthy curcuma or a passionate and fiery chilli – with the colours of Passion for colour 2023, your home will be turned into a feast for the senses.

Anyone who has ever visited a spice market in Jaipur or a souk in Marrakesh will ever forget the colours and smells. Spices develop their full effect on the plate: their essential oils infuse every meal with the finest flavours. It's therefore not surprising that people have been trading with pepper, caraway and salt for millennia.

REHAU is bringing this feast for the senses into indoors with Passion for colour 2023: colours based on the wonderful world of spices.

Let us inspire you to our colours:

Curcuma Gold

warm – earthy – soft

Marco Polo brought golden-yellow powder to Europe, where it has been refining dishes with its earthy, slightly spicy flavour ever since. The colour Curcuma Gold has the same effect. It makes an big impact but is not too overpowering. It brightens the room up and makes everyday life feel more balanced and harmonious.

Perfectly matches:

all types of wood, provides an refined contrast to dark grey, and can be beautifully combined with earthy, sandy shades.

Pepper Grey

classy – elegant – universal

The pepper plant brought wealth to India's Malabar Coast, introduced its special spiciness into its cuisine and combines both aspects in the interior: just like Pepper Grey, it is classy, elegant, timelessly universal and yet always harmonious.

Perfectly matches:

everything. Pepper Grey is the ideal companion to most shades of colour. Impartial, introverted, yet harmonious, it softens bright shades and enhances softer colours.

Vanilla Cream

light – soft – sunny

The 'queen of spices' was appreciated in her native Mexico long before the arrival of Europeans. Its floral aroma enriches sweet foods and is the ideal alternative to cool white in the interior design. The light, sunny colour shade of Vanilla Cream generates warmth and gentle harmony.

Perfectly matches:

other pastel shades and works as a summery contrast to dark woods. However, Vanilla Cream also stands out on its own.

Ground Chili

powerful – present – passionate

This hot paprika variant not only leaves an impression on the palate, but also sets highlights in the interior. The passionate, dark red Ground Chili is elegant, powerful and present, but remains pleasantly understated – just like a dish with a pinch of chilli powder creates a subtle spiciness.

Perfectly matches:

dark woods, black or shades of grey. However, Ground Chili is much more than a luxurious and sensual companion. You can also achieve incredible results using colour blocking with olive, dark blue or even bright pink.

Pink Salt

light – powdery – invigorating

The ancient Romans had a saying: you can live without gold, but not without salt. Common all over the world, it has a slight pink tinge in the Himalayas due to a slightly higher iron content. With Pink Salt, it has found its way into furniture construction. A warm shade that is light and almost powdery and becomes a gentle eye-catcher.

Perfectly matches:

the colour shades Ground Chili and Nutmeg Brown. However, combining it with black or olive will also turn the interior into a stylish eye-catcher.

Nutmeg Brown

harmonious – down-to-earth – elegant

Nutmeg can help combat depression, and in cuisines, freshly ground nutmeg refines vegetables and stews thanks to its evanescent flavour – and it's just as versatile as a colour: it radiates warmth, can be used universally and blends gently and elegantly into many room compositions.

Perfectly matches:

virtually everything. Nutmeg Brown is an all-rounder that can be combined with just about any colour. The easiest way to combine it is with neutral colours such as black, white or grey.
